An aerial photograph of a forested area, likely a park or reserve. The terrain is covered in dense green vegetation, with several large, irregularly shaped black patches scattered throughout, possibly representing cleared areas or water bodies. A blue line is drawn across the image, tracing a path or boundary. The line starts in the upper left, moves towards the center, then turns and follows a winding path towards the bottom right. A white rectangular label with the text "DIXON ENTRANCE D-1" is positioned vertically in the center of the image, overlapping the blue line.
