JUSTIFICATION:

The 2010 return of coho salmon to certain Knik Arm Drainage Area waters of Northern Cook Inlet appears to be strong and providing for above average recreational catch rates. Coho salmon returning to Fish Creek are counted at a weir located upstream of the Knik Goose Bay Road, and upstream of the sport fishery. This weir is primarily operated to count sockeye salmon; therefore it is typically only in operation during a portion of the coho salmon return. Historically, this weir has been used to count coho salmon and historically had an escapement goal of 1,200 to 4,400 fish. As of August 3, counts show 1,386 coho salmon have passed the weir and the current projected escapement of coho salmon into Fish Creek is estimated to be approximately 12,000 fish.

Based upon previous studies, there is a strong correlation between runs to Fish Creek and the other Knik Arm streams, specifically Cottonwood and Wasilla creeks. Therefore, it is warranted to increase the bag limit from two per day to three per day in all waters of Knik Arm, except the Little Susitna River and Jim Creek, and to add another day on the weekend only fisheries of Cottonwood, Fish, and Wasilla creeks to Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

It is not anticipated that the increased sport harvest from this emergency order will lower the escapement below desired escapement levels in Cottonwood, Fish, and Wasilla creeks.
