¹ DNR - Based on fee structures in Regulations: DNR AS 38.05.083 (Report No. 2522-12), ADF&G 5 AAC 41.280, and DEC 18 AAC 34.900(a) Seafood Permit Fee Schedule 2010 and 34.900(c)(1) and (2). If any discrepancies is found between this spreadsheet and the Alaska Administrative Code, The Code should be considered the final authority, unless the discrepancy is a result of a manifest error in the Code.

² DNR - One time fee.

¹⁰ Does not include Department of Revenues 3% Fisheries Business Export Tax, for any business that exports indigenous species product out of Alaska.
