JUSTIFICATION:

Through the Board of Game process in January 2019, the Alaska Department of Fish and Game (ADF&G) changed the harvest management strategy for wolves in Game Management Unit (Unit) 2 from one based on a harvest objective to one based on a population objective. The Alaska Board of Game adopted a Unit 2 fall population objective range of 150 to 200 wolves. ADF&G’s most recent estimate of the Unit 2 wolf population is 170 wolves. Under ADF&G’s harvest management plan, when the most current population estimate (170) is within the objective range (150-200) the trapping season may be up to two months long. During regulatory year 2019 (July 1, 2019 – June 30, 2020) the Unit 2 wolf trapping season will be open for the full two months. ADF&G believes a two-month season will allow the greatest harvest opportunity possible while also maintaining the population within the objective range.
