JUSTIFICATION: Southeast Alaska wild king salmon stocks continue to be in a period of low production. Southeast Alaska king salmon escapements observed from 2016 to 2021 included levels below the lower bounds of escapement goals for many of the 11 monitored king salmon indicator systems. The numbers of king salmon indicator stocks meeting escapement goals from 2016 to 2021 were three (2016), two (2017), four (2018), seven (2019), six (2020) and seven (2021). Despite better performance in 2021, the trend of low production is expected to continue in 2022 for many of the 11 monitored systems, including the Chilkat, Taku, and Stikine River stocks which are projected to have escapements below the lower bound of the escapement goal ranges for these systems. During the 2017/2018 Alaska Board of Fisheries cycle the Chilkat, King Salmon, and Unuk River stocks were identified as stocks of concern prompting the development of specific action plans that outline conservative management measures for all fisheries to reduce the harvest of these stocks. This emergency order implements the conservative management measures outlined in the king salmon action plans for the sport fishery. During the 2021 work session, the Alaska Board of Fisheries approved stock of concern status for the Chickamin River, Stikine River, Andrew Creek, and Taku River king salmon stocks. Conservative management measures to reduce harvest of these stocks and other wild Southeast Alaska king salmon stocks are implemented by this emergency order.

PREVIOUS EMERGENCY ORDERS AFFECTED: Emergency Order 1-KS-R-05-22 established regional resident and nonresident king salmon bag and possession limits and nonresident annual limits for the Southeast Alaska king salmon sport fishery for the 2022 season. Emergency Order 1-KS-R-05-22 is not affected by EO 1-KS-R-06-22, with the exception of the restrictions in areas specified in EO 1-KS-R-06-22.

DISTRIBUTION: The distribution list for this emergency order is on file at the Region 1 Office of the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, Division of Sport Fish, P. O. Box 110024, Douglas, AK 99811, (907) 747-5551.
