Division of Wildlife Conservation to Host 2nd Annual “Shaped by Wildlife” Community Storytelling Event

(Palmer) – The Alaska Department of Fish and Game will host Shaped by Wildlife: Stories of encounters, harvests, and traditions on November 13th from 6:00–9:00pm at the Glenn Massay Theater in Palmer. This all-ages community event celebrates the meaningful and diverse ways Alaskans connect with wildlife through storytelling, art, and music.

The evening will feature live, onstage storytelling from community members, hunters, gatherers, conservationists, and everyday nature lovers will share personal, true stories about wildlife encounters that have shaped their lives.

Before the show, Gallery Hour will showcase wildlife-themed artwork from youth and adult artists, live music by local musician Roland Roberts, Bearz Den Delights fry bread, and interactive displays from community partners. All proceeds support the Outdoor Heritage Foundation of Alaska, the official non-profit partner of ADF&G.

Shaped by Wildlife is open to all ages; however, some stories may include descriptions of intense wildlife encounters. For details and tickets, visit the Shaped by Wildlife event page at facebook.com/alaskafishandgame.
