

Submitted By
Rodney intagliata
Submitted On
2/12/2019 7:25:35 PM
Affiliation

RC04

First off I'm not seasoned at this kind of thing but here it goes. When there's weak runs and we can't get escapement it tuff to watch other fisheries open knowing they catch a hi percentage of the fish we are waiting for. These areas that open with no escapement goals are making it tuffer and tuffer for us to make are minimum escapement. The wassip study clearly shows large numbers of chignik bound reds being taken from these other areas. I'm not sure the answer to the problem but allowing these other areas to fish while chignik sits on beach isn't right. Especially knowing there catching the fish we need for escapement.